

Northfield Schools Commencement; Programs of Seminary and Hermon Attract Many Parents and Friends Over a Thousand Students End Studies And Leave Town For Their Homes

Nearly Four Hundred Graduate; Largest Class at Mount Hermon

The commencement period at Mount Hermon and Northfield Seminary has come to a close and the programs as published in last week's issue of the Press was carried out, together with other minor events, in the finest weather that could have prevailed and even on Monday morning the threatening rain held off so as to favor the final leave-taking of student friends and faculty.

At the Seminary the festivities began with the Informal Senior Step Singing at the chapel last Friday evening. Over 120 seniors gathered for their sing together as undergraduates in their last traditional songfest. School cheers and songs were led by Elizabeth Voorhis, president of the class, and other officers.

During the impressive last chapel service held in Russell Sage chapel Saturday morning, prizes were awarded to students who have been outstanding in scholarship and student activities in the year just completed.

Miss Grace Field of the Physical Education department presented the numerous athletic awards to the individual girls and the posture cup to Crane Hillside, the dormitory which had shown the greatest improvement in posture as a whole throughout the year. The inter-dormitory competitive scholarship trophy was awarded to Evelyn Holton. The Mary Eleanor Fry prize of $200 awarded each year to a member of the graduating class who has contributed the influence of a sterling character as well as good ability to the life of the school and who gives promise of a career of genuine usefulness, was awarded to Elizabeth Voorhis of New York City. The prize given for excellence in domestic work which is an important part of the school life was won by Evelyn Jones of New Brighton, N. Y.

The David B. Mills prize awarded for the first time this year to a member of the Campus Government association who has been thoroughly faithful to her responsibilities and has shown good qualities of leadership was divided between two of the student officers: Edith Ronian of Middletown, Conn., and Jean C. Olsen of Queens Village, N. Y. The Scott Penmanship prizes were won by Eleanor Reed of Westchester West, Vermont, and Marie Webster of Windham, Vermont. The Washington Franklin medal for excellence in U. S. history was presented to Barbara Mann of Waban. The Shaffer Bible prizes were won by Ethel Gary of Stafford Springs, Conn., Ruth Ruhl of Northfield, and Jessie Henry of Wallingford, Conn. Honorable mention was given to Rose Hayward of North Wilkinton, Patricia MacLeod of Haddam, Conn., Marjorie Park of Mendon, and Laura Lyon of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Mary E. Barnard Memorial scholarship established by the class of 1937 for a period of five years to be used for covering the expenses of one girl at the Northfield Girls' Conference was awarded this year to Patricia Jennings of Somers, Conn. The Bemis life membership in the Alumnae association was presented to Betina Loheed of Brooklyn. The Ellen Russell Worship prizes given for the best essays written on the subject of Worship were won by Elizabeth Voorhis of New York City and Elaine Briggs of New Haven, Conn., with honorable mention to Patricia MacLeod of Haddam, Conn., and Winifred Hansen of Lowell.

The D. L. Moody centenary prizes offered this year for the best personality sketches of the school's founder, were won by Ruth Smith of Williamstown, Dorothea Smith of New Haven, Conn., Eleanor Jacobs of Mercersburg, Pa., and Miriam Bolton of East Northfield. The Merrill-Keep interior decorating awards were won by Dorothy Phillip of North Bergen, N. J., Charlotte White of Guilford, Conn., and Susan Taylor of Maplewood, N. J.

MIRA B. WILSON
Principal at Seminary

Saturday afternoon the pageant of "Cinderella" was repeated on the playing field. It was a beautiful spectacle and witnessed by hundreds who lined the greensward. At 3:30 o'clock the faculty reception was given to the seniors and their guests at the home of Miss Mira B. Wilson, principal at the Seminary. A Home Economics exhibit at the Home Science building and a swimming exhibition in the Munger Memorial swimming pool also was held during the afternoon.

In the Auditorium at eight o'clock "Eternal Progress," a dramatization of the life of D. L. Moody was given by members of the faculties and about fifty students of both the Seminary and Mount Hermon. The drama was written by Prof. Robert Burdick of Mount Hermon who also directed its preparation and the music was under the direction of Prof. M. L. Gallagher, musical director of the schools. The auditorium was well filled in all vantage sections and the dramatization has been well and favorably received, many requesting that it be again staged during the summer season.

On Sunday morning at 11:00 the Baccalaureate service was held in Russell Sage chapel with the address by Miss Wilson. The chapel was completely filled with students and guests. The singing was by the Seminary choir.

Miss Wilson spoke to the class as it were a personal message, a heart-to-heart talk, extolling virtues and urging the doing of those things which make for character and a finished satisfactory life. Her words were earnestly spoken and absorbed as the final message to those whom she had guided and directed during the days of school at the Seminary.

In the chapel at eight o'clock was held the vesper hour of music when a program was rendered by the following participants: Katherine Colton and Gladys Grindeland, piano; Marion Keller, organ; Lucy Titcomb, violin.

The traditional lantern service climaxed the events of the day. The Seminary seniors for the last time lighted their lanterns of chapel hill and formed their class numerals in the presence of hundreds of friends and schoolmates. After singing "Follow the Glean," the seniors marched to the top of Chapel hill and presented their lanterns to expectant juniors who then formed their class numerals amid the songs and cheers of the audience.

Monday morning in the auditorium there was a beautiful sight. The vast audience completely filling the seats of the great structure and encircling the large senior class who occupied the center. They had marched in with their caps and gowns during the playing of the processional and to them the happy moment of their student life in Northfield was to be witnessed. On the platform were Principal Mira B. Wilson and members of the faculty. The address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Boynton Merrill of the Second Church of Newton and a member of the Board of Trustees of the Northfield Schools. He said in part:

"Quality has no substitute and there is no mistaking it when we are in its presence. We are living in a time when we are under the spell of quantity. Efficiency, cheapness, size, mass-production, these are the watchwords. We need those who will set themselves to be content with fewer things but better, who will prefer excellence to size and a thorough going fitness to mere surface excellence. We can have lasting satisfactions and make contributions to the life of our time only if we prefer inner, enduring quality to outward passing quantity. Dare to set yourself to live a disciplined life. Dare to examine and test yourselves and if you find that within you you do not have the power to steer toward your chosen goals, you may well take thought and beware. Much as I admire your eagerness, I carry with me a doubt as to whether you have set your goals high enough." Dr. Merrill charged the members of the graduating class once more to test themselves and to see "whether or not the road you walk is one that leads out beyond the immediate and the personal into the realms where the ideal and the timeless dwell."

Among the members of the graduating class from Northfield were: Miss Louise Whitman, Miss Margaret Skilton, Miss Edith M. Spaulding and Miss Genevieve Alexander of East Northfield, and Miss G. Eleanor Bruce and Miss Marjorie Lawrence of South Vernon.

Over at Mount Hermon school a record graduating class left the institution to face further study or the problems of life in the business world. As at the Seminary, hundreds of parents and friends were made welcome and an atmosphere of festivity reigned.

Exercises began Friday evening at 6:15 when at Social hall the seniors held their supper with much merriment indulged in. In Camp hall at 8:00 an audience completely filled the place to witness a showing of the movie, "Green Light."

Saturday afternoon at 3:00 the Class day exercises and awarding of prizes was held on the West hall lawn. In the evening the school united with the Seminary in the production of "Eternal Progress" in the auditorium at East Northfield.

On Sunday morning in the Memorial chapel, Headmaster David R. Porter delivered the Baccalaureate address. The seniors marched into their front seats for the last Sunday service as undergraduates dressed in traditional caps and gowns, with red and black tassels on their caps.

In his remarks Dr. Porter said: "Education at its best is life itself, and true literature grows out of that life. We live in a time when the chief questions of life have to do with character. 'First-class events and second-class men' is the criticism of one discerning writer. We have to inquire, not are we clever enough or rich enough, but are we good enough? Is our aim right, and have we the spiritual resources to achieve our aim? Now that we have invented the radio 'can we use it for moral ends? With our widely publicized movies, attended by countless millions, can we use them for the social weal? Now that we have built such a luxurious and comfortable civilization, can we keep it from ruining us in war and social disorder?"

DR. DAVID R. PORTER
Mt. Hermon Headmaster

In his farewell greetings to the seniors, Headmaster Porter urged that the same spirit of co-operation which had characterized the past year be continued in the years to come. "Let the memories of past struggles with triumphs over weakness and wrong be yours. Recall the great traditions of this school, made eternally sacred by the founder, D. L. Moody. Above all, when the fight is bitterest, remember the Christ and our father, the ever-living God."

The Headmaster's reception to the members of the senior class and their friends was held in the afternoon at Ford cottage. Here groups conversed and enjoyed a most pleasant visit. Those who assisted the Headmaster and his wife in receiving were: Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Rikert, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon F. Pyper and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Platt. Refreshments were served.

In the evening in Memorial chapel an Hour of Music was held with Prof. Carleton L'Hommiedieu presiding at the organ in a program of musical memories and reveries.

Monday morning came the climax of graduation when Memorial chapel completely filled to overflowing witnessed the commencement exercises and the awarding of diplomas to the largest class in the history of Hermon to graduate. In their caps and gowns the seniors sat together near the chancel of the church. The speaker was Prof. James T. Cleland of Amherst college who delivered a most inspiring address. Among other things, he said:

"There are three types of dissatisfaction, the first—a juvenile bad habit; the second—the prognostic religion of America; the third—a rare pearl of great price. The first is the dissatisfaction of the childish mood, in which life is one long whimper. The second is that of the scientific approach which constantly seeks material satisfaction. It has given us kneecap action and floating power; oil burners and kitchen gadgets and the other innumerable conveniences of daily living. Factories are its cathedrals, laboratories its monasteries; bodily comfort its God. The third is the dissatisfaction of the inner attitude, of spiritual perspective, which alone brings the satisfaction that is the quiet harmony of the sane man."

Soon Leaves Town Prof. and Mrs. Duley Go To Gloucester

With the retirement of Prof. Frank L. Duley from the faculty of the Northfield Seminary after a continuous career of 37 years of teaching at Mount Hermon and the Seminary, Prof. and Mrs. Duley will leave Northfield and make their home in Gloucester. They will move about the 24th and their going will create a void in the activities of the church which they attended and the town which they served. Two weeks ago the Congregational church gave them a farewell reception. Missed by many friends all will unite, however, in hoping for all the blessing of life to them both in their coming days.

PROF. FRANK L. DULEY

Mr. Duley was graduated from Mount Hermon school in 1893 and from Williams in 1897. He then set out to Constantinople as an instructor in Latin at Robert college. Two years later he entered the United States consular service in Constantinople, acting as deputy consular-general and marshal of the consular courts in Turkey. He returned to this country in 1901, married a girlhood friend, Blanche Steer, from his home town, Gloucester, and started teaching Latin and Greek as head of the classical department of Mt. Hermon school when Dr. Henry F. Cutler was principal. Their one child is a graduate of Mt. Hermon.

Mr. Duley came to the Seminary in 1912 and in 1925 to 1929 he was acting principal of the Seminary, until Mira B. Wilson came to assume her duties as principal. He has been a deacon and trustee of the local Trinitarian Congregational church, and is president of the Northfield Brotherhood. He was a member of the town school committee for 12 years and chairman nine years. He has served as trustee of the Dickinson library since 1913, is a member of the Harmony Lodge of Masons, a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity at Williams.

He achieved the rare distinction of receiving an M. A. from Classical association, having published papers many times. From a ledger of the students in his many classes, it seems that he has taught over 8000 students in the 37 years of his teaching.

Mr. and Mrs. Duley will return to Gloucester where they will live in Mr. Duley's grandfather's house, where he was born. Next winter he plans to continue the lecturing on current events, which has been one of his hobbies.

Brattleboro Hospital Building Assured

The corporators of the Brattleboro Memorial hospital have authorized the officers to borrow $20,000 so that the work of construction of the needed new building may shortly proceed. The sum of $34,000 has been raised toward the total amount needed of $60,000. This with the borrowing leaves $6,000 to be immediately secured by further gifts and subscriptions.

A picture of the new addition to the hospital was recently published in the Press and a description made of its provisions which are badly needed. Anyone in Northfield desiring to assist in the appeal may send the subscription to S. E. Walker who is the committee representative in this town.

Miss Viva Richardson of Mt. Holyoke college and a former member of the Seminary faculty will give a musicale in the parlors of the Northfield Hotel this Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock. Guests and friends are cordially invited to attend.

SEMINARY ALUMNI HOME-COMING BEGINS TODAY FOR THE WEEK-END; INTERESTING PROGRAM ARRANGED

Many Class Reunions; Parade Among Features

From England, from Ohio, Florida, California, Arizona, they will come and today, Friday, ushers in the Centenary homecoming celebration of Northfield Seminary.

A very full and interesting week-end has been arranged by the committee of which Mrs. A. G. Moody is chairman.

A program entitled "Memories, Voices and Faces," is to be given in the auditorium with Prof. Frank L. Duley presiding this evening after which there will be an appreciation of Mr. Duley by his students. Miss Lillian MacDonald '17, will preside and the Misses Nora Booth, '28, Elizabeth Corning '29, and Maud Landes '09, will speak.

The annual meeting of the Northfield Alumnae Association will be held in Phillips Hall Saturday morning at 9:30 with president Mrs. Bess Lombard Chaffin in charge. The Parade of the classes will start from Music hall at 11:45 with Miss Jean Allen '34, as Marshall and will be led by a band from the Kurn' Hattin Home. The Collation is scheduled to be held at 1:00 on the lawn between Betsey Moody and Palmer hall. The luncheon speakers are to be Miss Mira B. Wilson, Dr. David R. Porter, and Mr. P. Whitwell Wilson of the New York Times. Each will speak on a different phase of D. L. Moody's influence. Open house will be held at Talcott library, Home Science hall, the Birthplace, the Homestead, and Miss Wilson's home from 3:30 to 5:00. At the same time there will be Meditation music at Sage Chapel by Mrs. Elizabeth Parmenter Felter of the Northfield Seminary faculty '10-13. Class meetings will be held from 5:00 to 6:00 in Palmer. The class of 1492 will hold a reunion and supper at the Homestead at 5:30 while the other class reunion dinners are scheduled for 6:30 in the various dormitories.

Miriam Booth, class president '34, will lead a songfest at 8:30 o'clock after which there will be a lantern service on Chapel hill. The Alumnae prayer service will be led by Mrs. W. R. Moody in Russell Sage chapel at 9:30 Sunday morning. At 10 there is to be a Communion service with the Rev. Harold B. Ingalls and the Rev. Ellis E. Jones officiating, assisted by deacons from the village church. Dr. G. Glenn Atkins is to be the speaker at the morning chapel service at 11:00. In the afternoon there will be an hour of music in the Mt. Hermon Memorial chapel at 4:00 by Miss Viva Faye Richardson and Mrs. Mabel A. Foster, former faculty members, and Miss Marian Keller of the present faculty. "A memorial service for Miss Mary E. Silverthorne will be held in East hall at 6:30. Dr. John McDowell will conduct a centenary Round Top service at 7:30.

The Alumnae will leave after breakfast Monday morning. The members of the committee who

Another Graduation High School Class Seniors Of 1937

Northfield High School again sends another class out in graduation to face the future and its problems. ### Students Promoted Last Friday Evening With Fine Program

The town hall was well filled last Friday evening when about forty of our young folks received their promotion certificates in the company of a large group of parents and invited friends. It was a happy moment to each member of the class when Supt. Linville W. Robbins handed to each their pass to the studies at the high school next fall. A very fine and most interesting program was given during the evening which consisted of music, essays and readings. The prize essay was by Valentine Plotczyk, the class poem by Evelyn Russell, another prize essay by Helen Savcheff, an original essay by Donald Newton, and another by Carleton Finch. There was a presentation of class gifts and the singing of the class song. The class motto is "Never give up," and the colors, red and gold.

planned the home-coming, are: Mrs. Moody, chairman; Mrs. Bess L. Chaffin, president of the association, ex-officio; Mrs. Emily Freeland McClain, music; Miss Eva Freeman, souvenir program; Mrs. Ada Starr Colton, picture exhibit; Miss Lillian MacDonald, Duley appreciation committee; Miss Prudie Moore, director of alumnae day, and Mrs. Gladys Forslund, assistant director of Alumnae Day.

THE NEW LATCHIS THEATRE BUILDING, BRATTLEBORO

The above is the architect's drawing for the new Latchis theatre building at the corner of Main and Flat street in Brattleboro. Construction is to begin soon and it is expected to complete the same during 1938. The entrance to the theatre will be toward the left on Main street, the building extending 81 feet on Main street and 375 feet on Flat street with ample parking space toward the rear. In addition to a 1200 seat theatre the building will house stores, offices and apartments. The auditorium will be 123 feet long and from 72 to 87 feet wide, the orchestra having seats for 900 and the gallery 300. The theatre will contain all modern facilities. Northfield theatre-goers will take a keen interest in this new construction, and our older residents have a personal reason in the fact that the late Demetrius Latchis, in whose name the theatre will be a memorial, once started his success in life in Northfield by supply fruits and vegetables in a house-to-house visit. He was a man of fine character, a hard and industrious worker and his sons, Peter, Spero, and Emanuel, do well in thus honoring their father. For the new enterprise friends in Northfield extend congratulations.

Gives Tapestry

Leverett Candee of Boston, an old friend of Northfield Seminary has presented to the school an old decorative piece of tapestry which formerly belonged to his mother for a wall hanging in the new Merrill-Keep hall. It is a square of Chinese embroidery and a very fine specimen of the workers art.

B. Aero E.

B. Aero E. that's the degree in the aeronautical engineering course and it was given to William G. Carr, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Carr of Winchester road upon his graduation Monday from the Rennselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N. Y. There were 218 academic students to graduate. Mr. Carr also received honorable mention for a thesis on "a universal engine design." He is a member of the Theta Nu Epsilon fraternity and also of the Institute of Aeronautical Science Engineering society. His parents were present at his graduation.

Mrs. N. Fay Smith has returned to her home on Birnam road after a visit of some weeks with her son, Richard and family, at Reading, Pa., and with her daughter, Helen, in New York City.

PERSONALS

Dr. Elliott W. Brown who has been at a Holyoke hospital for treatment recently for injuries received in a fall down stairs has returned to his home and is making a gradual recovery.

Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Peck who have spent the winter in Greenfield are now with Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Kellogg at their home on the Pierson road for the summer.

A well known Northfield young man will take unto himself a wife on Thursday, June 24.

Rev. and Mrs. Loring B. Chase and family of Bridgewater were at their cottage here this week. They attended the graduation of their son Loring at Dartmouth college.

Mrs. William J. McRoberts of Brooklyn has returned to her home here for the summer accompanied by her sister-in-law, Miss Francine McRoberts of East Orange who is her guest.

Mrs. William Voorhees of Mendham, N. J., has opened her cottage here and will remain in Northfield for the summer season. With Mrs. Edna B. H. Jenkins of Jackson Heights, N. Y., who is at her home on Rustic Ridge, these two women are among those who have been constant summer residents here for over thirty years.

Mrs. Nellie A. Handy entertained the Ladies Benevolent society of the Congregational church of Troy, N. H. on last Wednesday. After their meeting a picnic lunch was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Scott were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Maydole at their home here last Sunday. Mr. Scott, formerly YMCA secretary in New Jersey is now Supt. of the Baptist Orphanage in Philadelphia. Their son, Allan, is a student at Mount Hermon school.

Miss Polly Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parker of Main street, was graduated last week Thursday from the Reed college, Portland, Ore., with the B. A. degree.

Mrs. Walter Swan of Waban has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Bardwell at her home on Main street.

Miss June Wright leaves this week-end for a visit with relatives in Syracuse, N. Y. and early in July will go to Boston to attend the summer school of Boston University.

Mrs. Louise B. LaBella of Springfield has arrived to open her summer cottage on Rustic Ridge. She has Mrs. Reuben Currier of Springfield as her guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watt of Philadelphia, Pa., spent the week end at the Boeve cottage in Mountain park after which they went on by motor to Dartmouth.

Mrs. Grace C. Cornell entertained recently at her home here, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Matthews and Mrs. Mabel McClaskey, relatives from Wilmington, N. C.

Homer Carne has returned from his studies at Wheaton college and Harlene Carne is home from Wilson college at Chambersburg, Pa. Both will spend the summer with their parents on Birnam road.

Misses Virginia and Hope Hoelzer of Bloomfield, N. J. were guests of the Makepeace family of Warwick avenue for the Hermon commencement. Their brother, Charles, was a member of the graduating class and has been prominent in Hermon activities as a member of the Glee club, the choir, and on the staff of the Hermonite. The Hoelzer family were former residents of Northfield.

From California Comes A Greeting

From Pasadena, Cal., comes a letter from Charles G. Johnson, in the editor's possession in which he as a native son of Northfield comments. He had received a copy of the Press which had reported the sermon of Rev. Mary Andrews Conner on "How can Northfield churches unite in religious thought and action." He says the question was a courageous one and ought to have a favorable consideration and then gives some valuable information in the results of the union of the Congregational and Unitarian churches in Pasadena. He states that he "would be happy to learn that the two churches of the town where he was born nearly 89 years ago had really united for religious thought and action." Mr. Johnson visited Northfield in the winter of '69 and '70 when he taught in the village school and was an attendant at the Congregational church. He says further that "it is a long trail back to those days but the memories of the many fine families he knew grow richer as the years pass."

Martha E. Callender

Martha Ellen Bemis Callender widow of the late Thomas Russell Callender who died in 1931, life-long resident of Northfield died at the home of her daughter in Norwood last Friday morning and after the funeral service there her body was brought to Northfield for burial in the family plot in Center cemetery on Sunday. She had been in poor health for some time and was about 79 years of age. For years Mr. and Mrs. Callender had occupied the large Callender homestead at the foot of Main street now owned by Mr. Carmean.

The service here at the grave and commitment was conducted by the Rev. Mary Andrews Conner, pastor of the Unitarian church of which she was a member and had been an active worker. She was also a member of Northfield chapter O. E. S. and was a past matron. She had also been a member of the Fortnightly Woman's club. Mrs. Callender was a woman of fine character, well liked and with many friends who esteemed her acquaintance. Surviving are her daughter, Miss Gertrude Bemis Callender of Norwood and Dr. George Russell Callender, a Major in the U. S. Army Medical corps.

Children's Day

Children's Day at the Congregational church was last Sunday morning when the church congregational and Sunday school united in a single service and with a most excellent program as announced in last week's Press. The weather was fine and served to bring out a large audience. With beautiful decorations the service was made most impressive.

Garden Club Notice

The Northfield Garden club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Lawrence in West Northfield, next Monday, June 21st. After viewing the garden, the club members will adjourn to the grove near the pond for a picnic supper. Members will please bring all food and drink as there will be nothing on sale. Copper will be at 6:30.

Through the courteous efforts of Hon. John W. Haigis of the Franklin County Trust Co. the town of Northfield, through its Treasurer, Charles F. Slate, has been able to borrow a short-time loan at the rate of sixty-five one-hundredths of one per cent.

*Does Your Wife Deserve
A 40-Hour Week, Too?*

In the past few years, men have demanded—and got—more pay and shorter working hours. And yet they turn out the same amount of work. Improved machines and tools have made it possible. It is a fair adjustment. Men have more leisure. Life is more enjoyable.

But how about their wives? Are they working shorter hours because of new machines in the home? Are they getting their share of this new leisure that mechanical inventions have made possible?

Some are. Some are not!

Shorter hours are possible for every woman today who lives in a home that is wired for electricity. With a few electrical appliances—a range for cooking, a refrigerator, a vacuum cleaner, a washing machine, an ironer—every woman can enjoy shorter working hours and an equal leisure with her husband.

And believe us—she deserves it!

EDITORIAL

The Public Works Administration of the state is observing its fourth anniversary and is giving an account of itself for this period. It has assisted the state, counties, cities, and towns in an amount of $76,454,754 worth of useful and worthwhile projects, the actual Federal grants amounting to $26,719,353. Employment has been created for 43,000 men especially during a period when men needed assistance. Surely the PWA is to be commended for its aggressive action in this state and for its wise direction by its officials. Northfield has been the recipient of its projects and are appreciated. Perhaps with more diplomacy and co-operation Northfield might have received further consideration.

Strangers visiting our town within the past two weeks have been favorably impressed with the appearance of our streets, our beautiful trees and so many well kept lawns. Many gardens and shrubbery have afforded an attractive picture as visitors tarry along the highway. The historical stones have caught the attention of many a passerby. The only wall of despair comes from the unsightly patches of uncut grass and unkempt plots.

It is too bad that when a citizen does his best to make his premises look well, his neighbor neglects his and spoils the scenic charm of the community. Owners of vacant property are the chief offenders while indifference on the part of others is the cause. Perhaps the Village Improvement might use its funds in the charitable enterprise of doing the job, but then the burden might prove too much if all plots were cared for. In order that the society might accomplish the effort, permission of the owner must first be secured and then consent of the state authorities who do not own but control the highway.

If each citizen would concern himself with the property for which he is responsible, Northfield might be indeed the "town beautiful" and attractive to the homeseeker and the traveler. Even property would appear in a more valued showing.

The Back Yard Gardener

Of course everybody has a right to his own ideas, but it makes me chuckle to see some of the designs for outdoor fireplaces recommended by some of our garden magazines. I'd say that these writers must have been in cahoots with the trucking or concrete companies, judging from the size of the recommended structure.

But regardless of the size or type, I think you will have to agree with me that outdoor fireplaces are a mighty fine thing for family recreation and picnics. Just last week I was talking to a friend who was pretty provoked. He started out and had to drive 60 miles before he could find a picnic spot that wasn't occupied, and then the one he selected wasn't too much to his liking.

So I suggested that he build a little picnic corner in his own back yard, and explained to him that it would cost little or nothing. The only thing that my outdoor fireplace cost was a few hours of labor. I found a man who had knocked down an old house and I salvaged about 75 or 100 bricks.

I picked out a nice corner of the yard when there was a good chance for the breeze to swish through and then put the open part of the fireplace toward the direction from which the breeze comes. I leveled off the ground and then simply laid the brick end to end. I made the thing long enough to carry a good length of firewood and about a foot or a little better wide on the inside.

By breaking one or two of the bricks you can lap them over so that they lay just like they are in a wall. It isn't necessary to use mortar of any kind provided you start your bricks level and provided the bricks are smooth and clean.

After they are up about 4 or 5 bricks, lay a piece of scrap iron across and start your chimney.

CAN'T PUMP WITHOUT A HANDLE

The chimney can up 3 or 4 more bricks. I find it's a good policy to try and draw the chimney in a little bit just like it is in a regular chimney.

Then with one or two bricks laid in the bottom of the fireplace so that your wood is off the ground to permit a draft, you have a fireplace that will cook just as much as one of these fandangled things that stand higher than a man's head. At least it will cook enough hamburger and onion to satisfy a dozen people. I know because I've tried it.

Put your fire place the right way so that you can put a small hole on the outside of the chimney. Then by building your fire in the right place, you can cook on the top of the chimney and on the grate.

As long as you don't mortar your bricks together you can easily move to some other place in the yard, and another thing you can always get plenty of dry wood right out of the cellar and you can always get plenty of paper and chips with which to start the fire.

There is only one word of precaution, and that is of course not to put it too close to buildings or valuable trees.

So here's hoping that you have an outdoor fireplace instead of spending too many hours hunting picnic places on the back roads. Of course a picnic out at such places is all right now and then, but it is certainly a lot less work for you and the wife and everyone else concerned to put your picnic sets on a small table and carry it out to the back yard fire place then it is to pack it very carefully in an insulated carrier or the car; then find room for yourself and the kids; and then find after you get to your destination that the milk cap came off, and so on and on.

MacDowell Colony Will Open June 26

The 500-acre estate of the MacDowell Colony at Peterborough, N. H. will open to visitors this season on Saturday, June 26. Mrs. Edward MacDowell, widow of the composer, and now guiding spirit of the colony will give a tea to callers that afternoon and the studio workshops in the woods will be open. Thornton Wilder who will spend the season there will read the poems of Edwin Arlington Robinson and Ellnor Wylie, who before their deaths were associated with the colony for many years. Resident colonists will conduct visitors about. All the homes of the artists, writers, painters, sculptors, poets, and musicians will welcome the visitors. A pilgrimage to the Edward MacDowell colony on the opening date will be one long to be remembered.
